

Mid-South Press

Nashville, Tennessee

Using heavy machinery and keeping tons of paper in stock, Mid-South Press was looking for space and durability for their new facility.

Located on I-24 on the west side of Nashville, their new building was constructed on a rock site, with strong concrete tilt exterior walls, and a concrete floor specially designed to withstand the running of their large presses.