

Blackstone Brewery

Nashville, Tennessee

Blackstone was looking to expand their beer processing capabilities beyond their brewery and restaurant on West End Avenue. But their project offered some special challenges: they had selected a site with very difficult soil conditions; they only had a shoestring budget; and they wanted to factor in future expansion, including a future tasting area.

So we proposed and priced multiple solutions for their project, including cost-saving pre-engineered components from Butler Manufacturing. With Carden Company's help, the owners were able to make the right choices for an economical and attractive building, which is also highly functional and can be easily enlarged down the road.
