

Cheatham Square Apartments

Ashland City, Tennessee

The poor soil conditions encountered on the site for Ashland City's first apartment complex almost stopped the project.

Putting the development on a firm foundation required a close collaboration of all parties: Carden Company, the owner, the architect, and especially the soils engineer to find solutions and make the necessary changes to plans, schedules and budgets.