

Nissan of Gallatin

Gallatin, Tennessee

When the 2006 tornado destroyed his original dealership, the owner of Nissan of Gallatin was temporarily out of business and facing plenty of insurance paperwork. But he also saw it as an opportunity to update his facility. It took a year to get the insurance settlement and the design ready, by which time the owner was in a hurry - he asked Carden to build his new showrooms and service bays in 6 months.

By contracting with Butler Manufacturing for pre-engineered building components, specifically designed to meet the dealership's special requirements, we were able to get him back in business on his schedule.

“I was well-pleased with the gentleman they had as fore-man - he was dedicated. Yes, I would rate him a 10.” - Owner Roger Bell

Link to case study.