Brentwood, Tennessee (Cool Springs)

Having successfully managed the construction of their Hickory Hollow dealership 12 years before, Carden Company was the first choice for the owners' new location in Cool Springs.

It was a location with good visibility to people driving by and they designed a distinctive showroom that catches the eye both day and night. But it proved to be a difficult, rocky site to build on. By working closely with the architect, owner and subcontractors, however, we were able to deliver the unique building they designed - at an economical cost.
