

Parman Energy Nashville, Tennessee

When Parman Energy's corporate offices suffered extensive interior flood damage, the company called on the contractor they'd trusted on various other building projects to quickly get them back into their building.

After helping Parman get their staff into temporary spaces, Carden Company managed the clean-up of what the floodwaters left behind, then the gutting and stabilization of the building. When the structure was sound, it was ready for the bold, bright rebuild.

Link to more details.